His Excellency the Governor and Mrs. Hennessy have promised their patronage. We understand His Excellency has expressed the great pleasure he had in patronizing such an artistic entertainment as that Mr. Fairelough and Miss May propose to give, knowing as he did the high reputation of both artists, and that he has promised to do all in his power to make the evening a success. As this will be the only occasion on which the public of Hongkong will have an opportunity of seeing Mr. Fairelough, and the last time their By Appointment to His Excellency the Go- old favourite Miss May will appear before them, the entertainment will no doubt be well attended.

A QUESTION. TO THE EDITOR OF THE "DAILY PRESS." SIR,—May I be permitted to ask through the medium of your columns what is the reason of the official in charge of the Chinese light stations in South China for not giving the salaries of the keepers exactly at the end of the month as has been the rule until lately. Not to receive pay until a few days after it is due may not affect the higher officials whose stipend is large, but it is a hard measure to a poor keeper. - Yours, &c. LUCIFER.

terized Chinese publications. For practical purposes the arrangement of the work is so complete, that a reference to its pages enables a person who understands English to communicate effectively with natives who understand nothing but Chinese. In this respect the work will be found indispensable to all Europeans residing in China, and to the natives themselves it explains subjects fully with which very few indeed of them are perfectly acquainted. To parties resident in England and interested

To illustrate the vast scope of the work, the following facts are submitted for consideration :-Chalmers Vocabulary contains about 16,000 Chinese characters, and Medhurst's English and Chinese Dictionary about 100,000, whilst this work contains more than 50,000 English words, and apwards of 600,000 Chinese characters. Again despite all the grammars and other elementary works as yet published, the student of this difficult language absolutely retf34 quires examples to display the various applications and aquivalents of different words which have one general meaning. Of these examples It comprises upwards of two thousand large

THE GRAVES OF OCEAN N MEDIORIAM THE "EURYDICE," MARCH, 24TH, Deep down beneath the anresting surgo There is a penceful tomb; Storm raves above, calm reigns below; Safe, safe from the ocean's wreak and wee, Safe from its tide's uncensing flow, Calm sholter from Time's roxing winds ; Sure anchorage at last ! The blinding sea-drift blinds not here; No breakers' boom the sleepers fear, . No angry typheon hovers near; Their latest storm is past.

The weary find a home.

Who dies in Christ the Lord, dies, well, Though on the lonely main As soft the pillow of the deep, As tranquil to uncurtained aleep, As on the couch where fond ones weep ;-And they shall rise again.

Not safer on the sea of glass Before the throne of God! As sacred is that ocean-cave, Where weeds instead of myrtles wave As near to God that unknown grave, As the dear churchyard's sod.

When the cold billow covered them No solemn prayer was said't Yet not the lose their grown shall be In that great morn of victory, When from their mortal fetters free; They leave their peaceful bed.

What though to speak the words of love No dear ones then could come, Without a name upon their bier, A brother's or a sister's tear, Their heaven will be as bright and ndar As from their boyhood's home-

Star of the promised morning, rise! Star of the throbbing wave, Ascond! and o'er the sable brine With resurrection splendour shine: Burst through the clouds with beams Divine. Mighty to shine and save.

The Fijians are very cleanly in their habits, and fond of being in the water. The women pass a considerable time fishing and morning. On the Island of Nairai mat making is industriously pursued, and I have taken from that Island 600 mate as a present to the King from the natives; these mats are beautifully plaited, and are cool and pleasant to lie on in a hot climate. The Fijians in their own towns are very industrious, but they do not care about working for the white man unless they particularly want money or trade. The young men are fond of games and I have spent hours watching them. On wet days in the houses they play a game something on the quoit principle; mats are spread the whole length of the house and the tops of cocoanuts are employed; the art of the game is to pitch the quoit from one end of the house to the other end and get it as near the end of the mat as possible, the opponent aiming to knock it off and obtain its place with his shell. In out-door games they may be seen throwing stones from behind their backs at at anything perched up; at this they are very expert. Another favourite amusement is to collect a quantity of lemons, and at about 30 yards off keep, throwing at each other alternately, and they are unpleasantly true in their aim. On moonlight nights Fijians are very restless, seldom going to bed; preferring to wander about platform above ground till the moon goes down!
